CINDERELLA

Aurora was named after the Roman goddess of the dawn because she filled everyone's lives with sunshine. Has the gifts of beauty and song. Principled. She spent her life thinking she was a peasant and not royalty, and was happy with that, making friends with the forest animals, though she does start to dream of a life past isolation. Once she has fallen in love and realizes that she and the kind man she met cannot be together because of her royalty, she is not relieved or excited by her good standing, but sad. She does not wish to marry the rich and handsome prince she is betrothed to, but rather, the kind stranger she met in the forest. You have to wonder what would happen if she wasn't saved the trouble of this conflict by the massive coincidence that they were the same guy.

Backup: Pocahontas, Cinderella

“Scorpios are the masters of their fate. They know only one way to live: on their own terms. They do not live life but attack it. When life hands them a loss, they do not waste time sulking, but rather continue on their path, sure they will eventually succeed. Scorpios are driven by their intense passions and dreams.” Can be secretive.
